

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Research Committee of the Indian Law Institute decided in the late 70s to bring about a revised version of the book on Labour Law and Labour Relations published by the Indian Law Institute in the year 1968. I was put in charge of the project.

In the initial stages, work on digesting of the cases was done by Mrs. P. Kalpakam, Associate Research Professor, Indian Law Institute, Mr. Rakesh Rustogi and Miss Rani Uppal (now Mrs. Rani Jolly). However, the latter two took up service and could not afford the time to continue with the project.

Dr. Suresh C. Srivastava of the Faculty of Law, University of Kurukshetra, was then asked to take up the project under my guidance. The manuscript of this book was revised, and re-revised many a time, so as to cover all the important cases, without making the book too bulky. Dr. Srivastava was good enough to do so ungrudgingly. Most of the work of digesting the case law has been done by him painstakingly. This book owes more to him than anybody else.

Mrs. Kalpakam has also edited the addenda of cases, prepared the table of cases, subject index and supervised the printing of the book. In doing so, she has taken enormous pains. Acknowledgements are due to her for this.

I must also acknowledge the contribution of Dr. Alice Jacob, Director (Administration) who has coordinated the work of publication with her usual patience and tact. But for her, the book might have been further delayed.

It is hoped that the readers will find the materials published in this book, interesting and instructive.

ANAND PRAKASH

Senior Advocate

New Delhi

20 February, 1987. Hony. Professor in Labour Law, Indian Law Institute

