

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

LECTURE I.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

	Page.
Remarks on Hindu law generally—What is Hindu law—Rules of civil conduct not distinguished from religious ordinances—The Dharma Sastra and its three divisions—Nature of the authority on which Hindu law was originally based—The nature of the Smritis —Constitution of Hindu courts—Growth of Hindu law—Different schools of Hindu law—Sources of the Hindu law—Original authorities—Custom—Judicial decisions—Who are governed by the Hindu law—How far Hindu law applies to persons other than Hindus—The institution of Marriage—Primitive notions regarding the relation of the sexes—Origin of the institution of marriage—Different forms of the conjugal relation—Polyandry—Polygamy—Monogamy—Marriage by capture—Marriage in Hindu law a sacrament—Different forms of marriage in Hindu society—Scantiness of case-law on the subject of marriage— Stridhana —Plan of the present course	1

LECTURE II.

PARTIES TO MARRIAGE.

Questions for consideration—Who are incompetent to marry—Minors—Idiots and lunatics—The deaf and dumb, and persons incurably diseased—Impotent persons—One having a wife living—Polygamy—One whose elder brother is unmarried—Who are unfit to be taken in marriage—Females how far viewed as parties to marriage—Minors—Marriageable age for a female—Guardianship in marriage—Betrothed girl—One whose husband is living—Widows—Girls with visible or other minor defects—One whose elder sister is unmarried—Woman of the same gotra —Girls related within the prohibited degrees—Prohibited degrees in different systems compared—Daughter of one's spiritual guide or pupil—Girl bearing one's mother's name—Girl older in age—Girl belonging to a different caste—Daughters of illegitimate persons—Effect of disqualification on marriage already completed	34
--	----

LECTURE III.

FORMS OF MARRIAGE AND FORMALITIES REQUISITE FOR A VALID MARRIAGE.

Different forms of marriage in Hindu law—Brahma—Daiva—Arsha—Prajapatya—Asura—Gandharba—Rakshasa—Paisacha—Mode of contracting marriage

—Betrothment—Its legal effects—Specific performance of contract of betrothal—Agreements in restraint of marriage—Marriage brokerage contracts—Ceremonies attending marriage—Necessity of their observance—Time for celebration of marriage—Consummation—Questions of validity of marriage how far cognizable in the Courts	79
--	--------	----

LECTURE IV.

LEGAL CONSEQUENCES OF MARRIAGE.

Scope of the present Lecture—Nature of the marriage contract—Nature of the marriage contract in the Hindu law—Rights of the husband and the wife over the person of each other—Custody of an infant wife—Restraint of wife's liberty—Correction of her person—Remedy of the husband against infringement of marital rights—Restitution of conjugal rights—Cases in which restitution of conjugal rights is not allowed—Effect of change of religion on the claim for restitution of conjugal rights—Act XXI of 1866—Adultery—Effects of marriage on personal capacity—Remarriage—Supersession—Present on supersession—Remarriage of a convert to Christianity relapsing to Hinduism—Man and wife one person in Hindu law only for religious purposes—Wife may contract—She may sue and be sued—She is not exempt from arrest in execution of civil process—Husband and wife competent witnesses for or against each other—Effects of marriage on the property of the husband and of the wife—Wife entitled to a share on partition—Wife entitled to maintenance—From whom—Maintenance when allowed to a wife living apart—Maintenance when forfeited—Rate of maintenance—Arrears of maintenance—Recovery of maintenance under the Code of Criminal Procedure—Maintenance of concubines—Husband and wife how far bound by each other's contracts—Bombay Act VII of 1866—Husband or wife entitled to compensation under Act XIII of 1855—Effects of marriage on offspring—Legitimacy—Effect of marriage in a different caste on legitimacy—Presumption of legitimacy—Bastard's right to inherit—Maintenance of children—Right to give or take a son in adoption—Paternal power under the Hindu law—Maintenance of parents—Rules for women whose husbands are away—Appointment of a wife to raise up offspring	110
---	--------	-----

LECTURE V.

DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE—WIDOWHOOD.

Duration of the conjugal relation—Divorce—Its different forms—Its effects—Divorce when allowable—Grounds of divorce in different systems of law—Divorce in the ordinary sense unknown to the Hindu law—Divorce allowed by custom in some cases—Grounds of such divorce—Distinction between divorce and dissolution of marriage in Hindu law—and between desertion and supersession—Judicial separation—Grounds which justify supersession—Grounds which justify desertion of a wife—Grounds which justify desertion of the husband—Change of religion a ground for desertion—Act XXI of 1866—Position of the wife who deserts, or is deserted by, her husband—
--	--

Position of the woman whose marriage is void ab initio—Widowhood—Duties of the widow—Sati—Origin of the practice—Supposed Vaidik authority for it—Duties of a widow surviving her husband—Rights of the widow—Maintenance—Amount of maintenance—Widow's maintenance how far a charge on her husband's estate—Heir not liable for widow's contracts for necessary supplies—Widow entitled to maintenance though not living in her husband's house—Widow how far entitled to maintenance from relations other than her husband's heirs—Right to maintenance not saleable—Maintenance forfeited for unchastity—Suits for maintenance—Widow entitled to reside in the family dwelling-house—She is entitled to a share on partition—Widow entitled to inherit in certain cases—But she takes a qualified estate—Succession of several widows—Perpetual widowhood—Act XV of 1856 182

LECTURE VI.

CERTAIN CUSTOMARY AND STATUTORY FORMS OF MARRIAGE.

Scope of the present Lecture—Conditions requisite for validity of custom—It must be ancient, continuous, and certain—It must not be immoral, nor opposed to the general spirit of the law—Burden of proof where custom is pleaded—Forms of marriage according to family usages—Custom in the Tipperah Raj—Custom among Uriya Chiefs—Forms of marriage according to local, tribal and caste customs—Customs of Bengal—Tribes of Assam—The Koch—The Santals—Tribes of Chota-Nagpore—Customs of the North-West and the Punjab—Customs of the Bombay Presidency—Parties to marriage—Betrothment—Divorce—Remarriage—Customs of Southern India—Prohibited degrees—Different forms of marriage—Malabar law—Canarese law—Divorce and remarriage—Forms of marriage according to sectarian customs—Vaishnavas—Gosavis—Buddhists—Jainas—Sikhs—Brahmos—Remarriage of widows—Act XV of 1856—Remarks on its provisions—Act III of 1872 233

LECTURE VII.

WHAT CONSTITUTES STRIDHANA.

Questions for consideration—Great diversity of doctrine on the subject—Different descriptions of stridhana according to the sages—Manu—Narada—Vishnu—Katyayana—Apastamba—Vyasa—Devala—Yajnavalkya—Remarks on the preceding texts—Definition and classification of stridhana according to the commentators—Benares school—Mitakshara—Viramitrodaya—Bombay school—Vyavahara Mayukha—Dravida school—Parasara Madhavya—Smriti Chandrika—Mithila school—Vivada Chintamani—Bengal school—Dayabhaga—Dayatattwa—Dayakrama Sangraha—Does property inherited by a woman become her stridhana?—Bengal school—Other schools—Thakoor Dayhee v. Rai Balak Ram—Bhugwandeem Doobey v. Myna Bae—Decisions of Indian Courts—Bengal—Chotay Lall v. Chunoo Lall—Madras—Bombay—Share on partition—Summary of the law—Gift—Purchase—Inheritance—Partition—Burden of proof where property is alleged to be stridhana 279

LECTURE VIII.

RIGHTS OF A WOMAN OVER HER STRIDHANA.

Page.

Proprietary rights of women under the Hindu law—Restrictions on a woman's rights over her stridhana depend on her status and on the nature of the property—Restrictions depending on the status of the woman—Maidenhood—Coverture—Husband's rights over wife's stridhana—Widowhood—Restrictions depending on the nature of the property—Gifts—from the husband—from strangers—Property acquired by personal exertion or by purchase—Property acquired by inheritance—Share on partition—Stridhana promised by the husband—Rights of an unchaste woman over her stridhana—Stridhana compared with woman's property under other systems—Roman law—Dos—French law—Married Woman's Property Acts—Sir H. Maine's remarks on stridhana 326

LECTURE IX.

SUCCESSION TO STRIDHANA ACCORDING TO THE BENARES SCHOOL.

Nature of the Hindu law of succession—Order of succession to stridhana different from that in the case of a man's property—Order of succession to stridhana different in the different schools—Order of succession to stridhana according to the Benares school—Daughters—Competition between daughters married and unmarried—provided and unprovided—Unchastity no disqualification for inheriting stridhana—Insanity and other grounds of exclusion from inheritance how far applicable to succession to stridhana—Succession by survivorship among daughters—Daughter's daughters—Daughter's sons—Daughter's adopted son—Sons—Adopted son—Grandsons—Order of succession to the stridhana of a woman dying without issue—When the woman was married in one of the first four forms—Husband—His sapindas—The order in which they inherit—When the woman was married in one of the disapproved forms—The mother, the father, and their sapindas—Their order of succession—Sulka, or woman's fee—Heirs to the property of a maiden—Order of succession according to the Viramitrodaya ... 354

LECTURE X.

SUCCESSION TO STRIDHANA ACCORDING TO THE MAHARASHTRA, DRAVIDA, AND MITHILA SCHOOLS.

The Maharashtra school—Comparative weight of authority of the Mitakshara and the Mayukha—Succession of children—Four different cases of this—First, as regards the antwadheya and the husband's gifts—Second, as regards the yautuka—Third, as regards other kinds of stridhana technically so called—Fourth, as regards woman's property other than stridhana technically so called—Heirs to a childless woman—As regards her stridhana proper—Husband and parents—other relations—On some unsettled questions concerning them—Are the husband's samanodakas entitled to inherit a woman's property—Whether paternal kinsmen succeed on failure of husband's relations—Order of succession to woman's property other than stridhana

	Page.
proper—Wealth given by kindred— Sulka —Succession to the property of a maiden—Devolution of stridhana according to the Dravida school—Parasara Madhavya—Smriti Chandrika—Succession of children—Succession to the stridhana of a childless woman—The sulka —Succession to the property of dancing-women—Succession to stridhana according to the Mithila school—Succession of descendants—Other heirs—Woman's fee—Succession to a maiden's property— Kritrima son 	384

LECTURE XI.

SUCCESSION TO STRIDHANA ACCORDING TO THE BENGAL SCHOOL.

Succession to stridhana according to the Bengal school—Succession of children and their descendants— Ayautuka stridhana —Sons and daughters—Barren and widowed daughters— Yautuka stridhana —Property given by the father—Adopted son—Daughter's adopted son—Grandsons, whether by sons, or daughters, take per stirpes —Succession of the group of heirs consisting of the husband, the brother, and the parents—Heirs after the husband, the brother and the parents—The group of heirs according to Brihaspati's text—The sapindas , sakulyas and samanodakas —Paternal kinsmen—The Crown—Heirs to immoveable property given by the husband—Heirs to the property of a maiden 	415
---	-----

LECTURE XII.

SUCCESSION TO WOMAN'S PROPERTY OTHER THAN HER STRIDHANA.

Succession to woman's property other than her stridhana — First , succession to inherited property—According to the Benares school—According to the Maharashtra school—The Mayukha—According to the Bengal school—According to the Dravida and Mithila schools— Secondly , succession to property acquired otherwise than by inheritance and not coming under the technical definition of stridhana —According to the Mitakshara—According to the Mayukha—According to the Bengal, the Dravida, and the Mithila school—Share on partition—Property acquired by gift from strangers or by labour and skill—during widowhood and maidenhood—during cover- ture 	444
---	-----

