

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

With the Indian Law Institute undertaking publication of the present scholarly work by Sir Orby Mootham, it has altered its previous policy of not accepting works by persons who are not Indian citizens. When we received the manuscript from Sir Orby it made us think of changing the policy followed hitherto. There may be scholarly works which remain unpublished for possible want of commercial viability but which are nevertheless likely to be extremely useful to legal scholars and legal reformers. Therein lies the eminent necessity of publication. As the Institute is a public service organisation and is not subject to the same limitations as a private publisher, it is for a body like the Institute to undertake the publication of such works.

We are grateful to Sir Orby Mootham for submitting this study to the Institute.
